Careers to Power the Future

OPPORTUNITIES in the Electricity Industry

Canada's electricity and renewable energy sectors will be recruiting over 45,000 new employees in upcoming years. Electricity sector employers are among the largest and best known companies in many provinces. They are often employers of choice with a strong history of internal training initiatives, strong benefits packages and employment security.

Most of Canada's electrical power grid was built over 25 years ago to serve a population of 20 million. Today, that population exceeds 34 million people whose lifestyles are increasingly dependent on electric devices. The sector is entering an era of modernization and expansion with an estimated investment of almost $300B required by 2030. This investment will drive many exciting and leading edge career opportunities in the sector.

A Career in the electricity sector offers the opportunity to work in almost any geographic location from big cities to small towns whatever suits your lifestyle.

ABOUT THE CANADIAN ELECTRICITY ASSOCIATION

The Canadian Electricity Association (CEA) is the authoritative voice of the Canadian electricity industry, promoting electricity as a key social, economic and environmental enabler that is essential to Canada's prosperity.
